

Jean Shinoda Bolen, M.D.

Author • Jungian Analyst • Activist

June 29, 2021

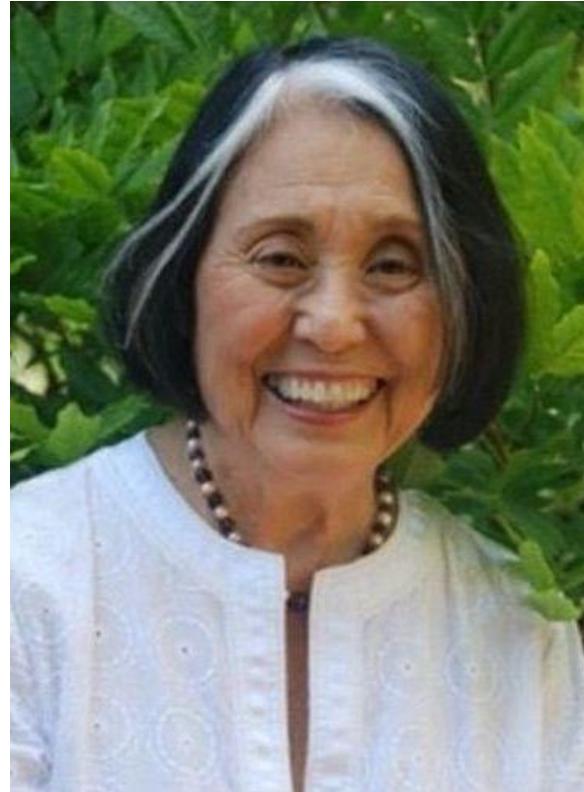

Dear Ones:

My occasional eNewsletter went out the day before a Zoom Video three-way spontaneous conversation at 8am in PDT. It was recorded and now can be seen and heard.. It was a conversation that ventured widely into spiritual and mystical liminal realms. The ordinary definition of "Liminal" is the space or threshold between "What Was" (as in before the pandemic) and "What Next?" There were 600,000 American deaths and 29 million Americans who got infected by COVID 19 and probably knew it could be fatal. I wonder about those who got infected and survived. Did it change them to be this close to death? What about those whose loved ones got infected, were isolated in hospitals, and died alone? Did they manage to communicate and be seen in dreams or were they seen or heard from by loved ones who were awake? If so was it received as meaningful and "real" or discounted as hallucinations? Our three-way conversation went deeper or weirder (depending on one's point of view). It made me think of The Three Wyrrd Sisters in Celtic Mythology.

Women's Perspective

invites you to listen to a conversation about emerging from the pandemic pause and noticing

The Gifts of Liminal Space with Nancy Napier and Jean Bolen

www.nancynapier.com

www.jeanbollen.com

Here's a link to the conversation with Rosemary Williams, Jean Shinoda Bolen and Nancy Napier on a recent Women's Perspective CT Facebook Live conversation about the opportunities and challenges of the liminal space opened up by the pandemic.

Click Here

A YouTube video thumbnail showing three women in a video call. From left to right: Rosemary Williams (gray hair, blue cardigan), Nancy Napier (orange cardigan), and Jean Bolen (dark hair, necklace). The video title above them reads "Conversation with Jean Bolen and Nancy Napier on the Gift...". Below the video, there are "Watch later" and "Share" buttons. At the bottom left, it says "Watch on YouTube".

Have you written act three of your life yet? There's still time.

But first, we need to activate them.

Activate & Embody Powerful Goddess Archetypes to Become Bolder, Wiser & More Authentically You.

Available in Paperback – from Mango Publishing
July 13, 2021.

Amazon-

<https://bit.ly/CronesDontWhine>

Barnes and Noble-

<https://bit.ly/CronesDontwhine>

Indiebound -

<https://bit.ly/CronesdontWhine>

Chapters indigo-

<https://bit.ly/Cronesdontwhine>

Newsletter designed by Rick Gildroy list managed by Computer Services Helena MT (406.443.7630)

Jean Shinoda Bolen MD

PO Box 1085, HELENA, MT 59624

Unsubscribe - Unsubscribe Preferences